

Alcohol, Drugs & the Teen Brain

featuring

Stephen Dewey, Ph.D.

Feinstein Institute for Behavioral Health at Northwell Health

With today's teen binge drinking out of control as well as new recreational marijuana laws, it can be hard for parents to discuss why substance use is so dangerous to our teen's health and wellbeing.

By popular demand, Dr. Stephen Dewey returns to our Power of Parenting Series to discuss how the teen brain is affected by underage drinking, marijuana and other drugs.

Dewey, an Investigator at the Center for Behavioral & Molecular Imaging at the Feinstein Institute for Medical Research at Northwell Health, simply shows us what he sees everyday through his research!
